

Preparing for and Managing Visitation

1. As a parent, you should always prepare the child for a visit with family. (Choose one)
T/F

2. What is a strategy that parents who are fostering or adopting can use to ease the transition when a child's visit ends with their family? (Choose one)
  - a. Don't mention the parent or the visit until the next time that the visit is taking place.
  - b. Ensure the child has a lot to do after the visit to help take his/her mind off the visit.
  - c. Go through the visit in detail with the child so that you can identify issues that might have arisen that will upset the child.
  - d. Make the visit endings consistent, such as doing goodbyes (and greetings) the same way at each visit.

3. All of the following are things that parents who are fostering or adopting can do to prepare for a visit with the child's parent except (Choose one):
  - a. Gather art projects, school reports and/or photos of the child and bring them to the visit.
  - b. Inform the child of some of the negative behaviors that the parent might do during the visit so that they are not surprised.
  - c. Talk to the child about his/her feelings about the upcoming visit.
  - d. Tell the child when and where the visit will take place.

4. It is important to try and establish a partnership with the parent. (Choose one) T / F

5. What is a strategy that parents who are fostering or adopting can use when a visit is missed? (Choose one)
  - a. Join the child in saying bad things about their parent.
  - b. Ignore the child's feelings because they will pass.
  - c. Make promises to the child that a visit will never be missed.
  - d. When talking about future visits, use language that allows for flexibility.